Course Description:

Are you familiar with the tremendous amount of information available to credit union lenders in the Lending Security Guide? Are you aware of all the lending forms available and do you know when and how to complete them? Do you have a good understanding of the law applicable to lending in Saskatchewan?

If you are a lender, whether in the consumer, agricultural, or commercial sectors, this course will provide you with valuable information. You will gain a better understanding of what is available to you in the Lending Security Guide. You will also learn how legislation and court decisions affect your lending procedures: including what goes in the forms, which forms to use and when and how to properly complete them; and you will enjoy the benefit of discussion of those questions most frequently asked by credit union lenders.

Topics Covered Include:

- Explanation of the uses and completion of documents in the guide;
- Discussion around legislative changes and the impacts on lending processes;
- Discussion of Saskatchewan law as it affects the way credit unions do business (e.g., Bank Act vs. Personal Property Security Interest);
- Discussion on most frequently asked questions on lending forms and on the law related to credit union lending. You will have the opportunity to pose your own questions throughout the day and get the answers you've been looking for;
- General review of topics discussed in the Lending Information Bulletins;
- And much more!

If you want to enhance your lending knowledge and skills, then your attendance at this course is a must!
